About the Chugoku Shikoku region

- The Chugoku Shikoku region in western Japan, situated between Kansai (Osaka) and Kyushu (Fukuoka), is a captivating tourist destination. Comprising nine prefectures, each with its own airport, it's easily accessible from Tokyo in about an hour.
- This area boasts UNESCO World Heritage sites like the Atomic Bomb Dome and Itsukushima Shrine, alongside cultural gems such as Okayama Korakuen Garden and Dogo Onsen. The region is renowned for its natural beauty, featuring art-centric Naoshima Island, the scenic Setouchi Shimanami Kaido, and the impressive Tottori Sand Dunes.
- Visitors can enjoy diverse activities including cycling, hiking, and sea cruises. The region also offers culinary delights like fresh seafood, Sanuki udon, and Hiroshima-style okonomiyaki.
- Discover the hidden charms of Japan in the Chugoku Shikoku region, where history, culture, nature, and gastronomy converge to create an unforgettable travel experience.
